

SHERIFF CATCHES TWO JAIL BREAKERS

Alva Banks and George Baxter Who Escaped from Bloomington Jail are Caught by H. L. McCord.

BANKS IS HELD FOR MURDER

Passed Worthless Checks on Merchants at Vallonia and Medora —Forged Medora Man's Name.

H. L. McCord, county sheriff made a good catch Saturday night when he ran down Alva Banks and George Baxter, who proved to be escaped prisoners from the Monroe county jail at Bloomington where the former was being held awaiting trial on the charge of murder. The men were captured on the Brownstown-Vallonia road about 10 o'clock Saturday night.

Banks and Baxter made their escape from the Monroe county jail about a week ago. They made their appearance at Medora Saturday afternoon where it is believed they went to a bank and secured some blank checks on the Medora State bank. They later passed a worthless check on M. F. Davis, a Medora merchant, for several dollars after which they left the town.

The two men appeared at Vallonia Saturday night where they succeeded in getting a check cashed at Geo. F. Turmail's general store for $25.50.

The name of C. V. Weddle, of Medora, for whom the men said they had been working, was forged to the check.

After cashing the check Mr. Turmail's suspicion was aroused and he called up the Medora man to see if he had issued the check. After learning that no check had been issued by Mr. Weddle, Mr. Turmail immediately notified H. L. McCord county sheriff, who started out after the men. He found them headed toward Brownstown in an automobile driven by Fred Peters, a Vallonia farmer, who knew of the check forgery and had started out to keep trace of the pair until the sheriff could arrive. The men told Mr. Peters that they did not care to go to Brownstown and that he could let them out at the edge of the town. Sheriff Mc-

RALLY DAY OBSERVED BY SUNDAY SCHOOLS OF CITY

Total Attendance of Nine Schools
Reported as 1,598, an Increase of Fifty Percent.

The Sunday Schools of the city observed Rally Day yesterday and special programs were given at most of the schools. The total attendance at the nine schools is reported as 1,598 or an increase of about fifty percent, above the combined average Sunday enrollment. In view of the favorable weather for the observance of the day, the superintendents and teachers are disappointed that the total attendance was not at least two thousand. The combined collection on Sunday was $103.20.

This is the first year that all of the Sunday Schools have held Rally Day at the same time. In the past the day has been observed by most of the schools but at different times during the year. This year the superintendents and teachers decided to make the observance uniform throughout the city. It is not expected that the plan will be abandoned in the future, and plans will be discussed for the observance next year.

"ROOSEVELT THE GREAT AMERICAN"

The Rev. J. H. More Pays Tribute to Life of Former President in Address Sunday Morning.

LESSONS DRAWN FROM WORK

Bible Was One of Roosevelt's Companions—Many Ideals Came From The Greatest Book.

"Theodore Roosevelt, The Great America," was the subject of an inspiring sermon delivered Sunday morning by the Rev. J. H. More at the First Presbyterian church. The address was founded on the text, John 1:6. "There was a man sent forth from God." Mr. More discussed the outstanding features of Roosevelt's life and work and the influence which he had upon Americans. The sermon was in observance of "American Week."

The sermon in part follows: "With all my heart I believe in the joy of living, but those who achieve it do not seek it as an end in itself, but as a seized and prized incident of hard work well done and of risk and danger never wantonly courted but never shirked when duty commands that they be faced."

"These are the incisive and positive and triumphant words of the great man in whose eternal memory American christendom is met on this the first day of Americanization week. Less than a year ago these words revelatory of his genius and his vigorous character were struck like forked lightning from his vigorous mind and still more vigorous soul. So thoroughly has the spirit of Theodore Roosevelt fastened itself on the life of this nation and penetrated into every remote corner that every true and undivided American feels his absence. And today those who are devoted to the finest and highest things in American life gladly do homage to his immortal spirit—especially in this hour when above all things we need the same unselfish devotion to duty, the same unflinching patriotism, the same bravery in face of adversity as exemplified in Colonel Roosevelt's daily life."

"Theodore Roosevelt is dead, but the country cannot afford to forget him—his spirit, his deeds and his ideals. He was no unique man. Emerson's ideal of a great man fits him well: 'He is great who is what he is from nature, and who never reminds us of another.'"

"If this be the true definition of a great man Teddy is entitled to his title 'the great American.' Certainly he reminds us of no one else. He was a strong individuality and a striking initiative. He struck straight for the object in view, and not looking for leadership elsewhere went himself in front."

"We shall not spend time on the discussion of what Theodore Roosevelt did not accomplish. There are many citizens who even now that he is gone delight to dwell upon the negative aspects of his life. But we shall dwell only on the positive as-

ARMSTRICE DAY IS DRAWING NEAR

Many Want to Know if Seymour is Going to Celebrate Anniversary of Ending of World War.

PLENTY TIME TO MAKE PLANS

On November 11 It Will Be One Year
Since The Mighty Conflict
Came to Close.

Is Seymour going to hold a celebration or do anything else in the way of according formal recognition to Tuesday, November 11, which will be the first anniversary of the armistice in the world war? The foregoing question has been put to the Republican several times in the past few days. As yet no definite plans have been made for a celebration so far as has been learned and little consideration has been given the matter.

It is understood the Seymour Post No. 89 of the American Legion has been considering plans for some kind of a celebration for their members on Armistice Day. However, if the plans are carried out the affair will be for the members of the organizations only in the way of entertainment and refreshments and will not be open to the public.

PETROGRAD IS ISOLATED

Fall of the City Unofficially Reported
Last Week is not Officially Confirmed.

By United Press
London, October 20—The various anti-Bolshevik forces continued their pressure upon Trotsky's army on all fronts of the rapidly narrowing territory dominated by the latter, according to advices received here today. While the fall of Petrograd unofficially reported last week had not been official confirmed, the city was said to be completely isolated and General Yudenitch's forces were on the outskirts according to a Helsingfors dispatch.

A news agency dispatch from Helsingfors today said Yudenitch succeeded in blowing up a railway bridge cutting communication between Petrograd and Moscow.

A Copenhagen dispatch said it was officially announced that Yudenitch had taken a city nine miles from Petrograd. Meanwhile Stockholm advices declared the Letts were progressing rapidly in their offensive against the Germans. A dispatch from Riga said that on Saturday the Letts seized German trenches and captured German positions taking eight hundred prisoners.

MULE BADLY BURNED AT CITY DUMPING GROUND

Animal Owned by Norval Mitchell Walks Into Fire Burning Beneath Trash.

A mule owned by Norval Mitchell and valued at $150 was badly burned about the feet and legs at the city dumping grounds near the Seymour Furniture Company's factory east of the city this morning when it was driven into a pile of trash which was on fire under the surface crust. The fire was not visible and the upper crust was apparently solid. The driver drove the animal onto the trash pile and it broke through to the hot embers.

Upon discovering the condition the driver got the animal out of the trash but too late to prevent the hair being burned off of the mule's legs and its hoofs being badly burned. The animal was able to walk to the stable. Its condition is considered serious although a veterinarian examined the mule and thinks that it will get along all right with the proper attention. It will be several weeks before the animal will be able to leave the stable.

It is the opinion of the city officials that the fire has been burning under the top crust at the dumping ground for several weeks.

A son, Gayle Eugene, was born Sunday morning to Mr. and Mrs. Grover Brown, High street.

CONFERENCE MUST FINISH PROGRAM

President Wilson Will Not Permit
National Industrial Session
To Break up.

TO "SEE THIS THING THROUGH"

Meeting Not Held Today As Employers' Group Had Not Reported on Collective Bargaining.

By United Press
Washington, October 20—President Wilson will not permit the national industrial conference to break up in a disagreement. This was learned on high authorities at the White House today. If any delegates quit the conference the President will name a substitute or cause him to be named. Even if an entire group should walk out the administration will make an effort to have it replaced. The industrial conference is here to "see this thing through," according to the attitude taken at the executive mansion. So much is at stake that the government cannot afford to let the conference go to pieces.

Employers in the national industrial conference were still in caucus on the question of collective bargaining shortly before noon today. Secretary Lane, therefore, adjourned the morning meeting of the conference which assembled at 11 a. m. since the public and labor groups were present. The conference was to convene at 2:30 p. m. when a vote was to be taken on collective bargaining.

Employers have been in caucus almost continuously since Friday. The public and labor groups are ready to vote in favor of collective bargaining resolution, it is said. A negative vote by the employers' group will defeat it.

Labor men say they will quit the conference if this occurs. Collective bargaining must be conceded as a right of organized labor, they say, if the conference is to go on. Members of the public group fearing a break today were making an unusual effort to hold the conference in session.

THE TAX RATES.

Since the state board of tax commissioners announced the levies for 1920 local people have been figuring up the amount of taxes they will be required to pay next year. Some property owners whose property was assessed at more than twice as much as it was taken last year will be required to pay a little more than this year. Those whose property was listed at less than double the last previous assessment will not contribute as heavily as they did this year. As a whole the amount of taxes paid by the individual will not be materially changed, except in such cases where property was listed too low or too high. Such in-

"OH, BOY" IS PHOTOPLAY OF GLOOM DISPELLING VARIETY

Amusing Chain of Circumstances Makes "Filmmusical Comedy" The Hit in Filmdom.

The sly, slinking villain of stage and screen tradition with his mischief-making machinations and his penchant for harrassing the helpless heroine, will be among the missing in "Oh, Boy!" Albert Capellani's "Filmmusical-Comedy," co-starring June Caprice and Creighton Hale. Neither will the vicious vampire or any other specie of iniquitous individual have a chance to weave his or her web of evil in "Oh, Boy!" for the new "Filmmusical-Comedy" is essentially a picture of the gloom-dispelling variety in which shadows have no place.

The dramatic or emotional conflict necessary to sustain the interest in a production of feature length in "Oh, Boy" is derived from an amusing cycle of circumstances in which the leading proponents of the story played by Miss Caprice and Creighton Hale are enmeshed by some whim of Fate. It might therefore be said that Fate, in this instance, assumes the role of villainess but her intrigues are not of the malevolent variety although they cause a series of complications that keep everyone concerned decidedly uneasy until the climax is reached, when everything is explained to everyone's satisfaction.

This villainless motion picture masterpiece is due for first local exhibition at the Majestic Theatre tonight.

Barbara Grey (Mae Marsh) assumes the responsibility for a bank robbery, of which Tony, her brother, is suspected. The real thief, Jack Newton, son of a wealthy lumber king, makes a dupe of Tony, and, when the latter returns to clear his sister and expose Newton, he is kidnapped and make prisoner by Newton and his confederate, "Slick" Simmons. To save her brother, Barbara, with the aid of her sweetheart, Harry Chambers, becomes a "boy," and what she does in rounding up the guilty ones forms one of the most thrilling plays of the season.

Another of the Chester Outing pictures will also be shown, "Where They Go Rubbing."

AROUND THE WORLD WITH THE AMERICAN RED CROSS. At Saloniki.

The veritable mountains of relief supplies turned out by the millions of chapter workers during the war made the American Red Cross one of the biggest "manufacturing concerns" in the world, with great warehouse space at scores of strategic points all around the globe.

One of the biggest distribution centers was at Saloniki, Greece, and in

The Zabern Affair.

What is known as the Zabern affair occurred in the town of Zabern, Alsace, in November, 1913, and was the culmination of the brutal treatment of the populace by the officers and soldiers of the Ninety-ninth Prussian Infantry, commanded by Colonel von Reuter. Lieutenant Baron von Forstner, the most notorious of the officers had provoked several clashes between the soldiers and the citizens, and ordered the soldiers to bayonet any one insulting the German flag. He, himself, sabered a crippled shoemaker, which raised a great storm. He was tried and sentenced to forty-three days' imprisonment, although his conduct was strongly defended by Von Reuter. Both Von Forstner and Von Reuter were reported killed in Belgium early in the war.—Indianapolis News.

STOMACH UPSET?

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like. 10c and 25c.

PROHIBITION BILL IS RETURNED BY PALMER

Expected That Sweeping Measure Will Become Effective October 28.

By United Press

Washington, Oct. 20—The prohibition law deemed one of the most sweeping acts ever passed by congress was expected to be sent to the White House today by Attorney General Palmer, who has been investigating its constitutionality.

The plan, it was learned, is to have the bill remain at the White House until October 28 when it becomes effective even without President Wilson's signature. From reliable quarters there has been no hint of a veto.

Under the law, on October 28, at the latest, it would become illegal to manufacture or sell liquor containing more than one half of one per cent alcohol, or any patent medicines or other compounds fit for beverage purposes, containing more than that amount of alcohol.

pects in his life. Mr. Roosevelt's strength was the positiveness with which he wrought—even when surrounded by mediocre souls too small to appreciate his magnificent Americanism. He had an instinct for political righteousness and generally was on the side of justice, righteousness and healthy progress. His enthusiasm and his unlimited energy led him into errors and mistakes but even this makes his life more human and more understandable. In his positive disposition he was an out and out, through and through, straight up and down American—a Christian American and as such we shall consider him today. In our contemplation of his character and career we shall find many lessons for our personal improvement, our fidelity to high trust and duty. Perhaps some of us will realize how disappointing our life has been to God and man—some of us may take new courage with God above us and such personalities around us."

Mr. Roosevelt recalled that wherever Mr. Roosevelt went he carried with him five or six books as his companions and that he spent at least half an hour a day with one of these. "The glory of it all is this," said Mr. More, "that this truly great man who knew the challenging altitudes of life, who knew the fellowship of the greatest of time was able to bring his life to bear upon the commonplace and lift them all into a nobler and moral level and spiritual atmosphere. It was the glory of his life that like the Master knowing the superior minds of the past and holding communion with God, he loved humankind and counted it his zeal to transform the lesser into the greater.

"I see the second source of his power in his companionship with the Bible. The roots of his greatness are found here.

"We have come to measure our statesmen by the character of Christ and the principles of statesmanship and moral progress which comes to us from this God breathe literature. What makes the Bible inexhaustive is the unique personality of Christ. Our Christ is the preeminent personality of the world. I have said that Roosevelt is companioned in the pages of literature with the world's greatest minds, but the world's greatest mind is Christ. He is the one great origination in the world. The companionship of the ageless Christ this great American well knew. His love for a righteous peace we trace to the words of Christ 'Blessed are the peace makers for they shall be called the children of God.' His philosophy of the square deal was but another way of expressing the golden rule. Into his statesmanship he attempted to bring those principles that were enunciated by Christ."

The third source of Roosevelt's power is found in his parentage, Mr. More said. From his father he learned the value of combined strength with gentleness, and tenderness with unselfishness. Roosevelt's life, the minister said, was lived with true devotion to his ideals. Outstanding in his career is his ideal of Americanism. "Roosevelt appreciated to the full the great opportunities of this country. True to the ideals of his Americanism Roosevelt preserved equality in the treatment of all classes. 'The door of the White House, shall swing just as easily to the pressure of the hand of labor as of the hand of capital—and no easier.'"

Mr. More closed his address with a reference to Roosevelt's intense interest in mankind.

Interesting Program by Members is Given—Attendance Contests Between Two Classes.

Rally Day was a gala day at St. Paul's Sabbath School. The attendance was the best of the year. A church flag and American flag were presented to every attendant as a souvenir of the occasion. Historic Battleship.

Possibly a majority of the Staten Islanders passing up and down the bay recently did not recognize a historic naval vessel moored for several days off Tompkinsville. This was a two-funneled, gray-painted vessel of old-fashioned lines, the old cruiser Baltimore, once a unit of the famous white squadron and a veteran of Dewey's fleet at the battle of Manila bay.

The Baltimore is now the oldest fighting ship in active service in the navy. She was built by the Cramps in 1888 and consequently is 31 years old. Despite her years the Baltimore is in first-rate condition, and during the great war rendered most valuable service. She had the honor to head the first convoy of United States troopships to go overseas, and more recently took part in laying the great mine barrage in the North sea.—New York Sun.

Nothing Large Enough.

The rookies were in line, waiting to be issued some clothing, and the exceedingly fat top sergeant had just asked for a blouse. The quartermaster sergeant hunted all through the piles of clothing but found nothing large enough. Eleven States To Display

Chicago, October 20—Plans for the International Grain and Hay Show which will be held in connection with the International Live Stock Exposition November 29 to December 6 were definitely outlined at a meeting of representatives of all Middle Western states with the Committee of the Chicago Board of Trade and the management of the Live Stock Exposition at the Saddle and Sirloin Club October 9.

Assurance was given by the state men that the people are interested in this great Exposition and that a large number of exhibits of wheat, corn, barley, rye and hay may be expected. Arrangements were completed for a feature exhibit showing a model farm 160 acres properly arranged with growing crops and live stock which will show the desirable location and arrangement of farm buildings, fences, etc.

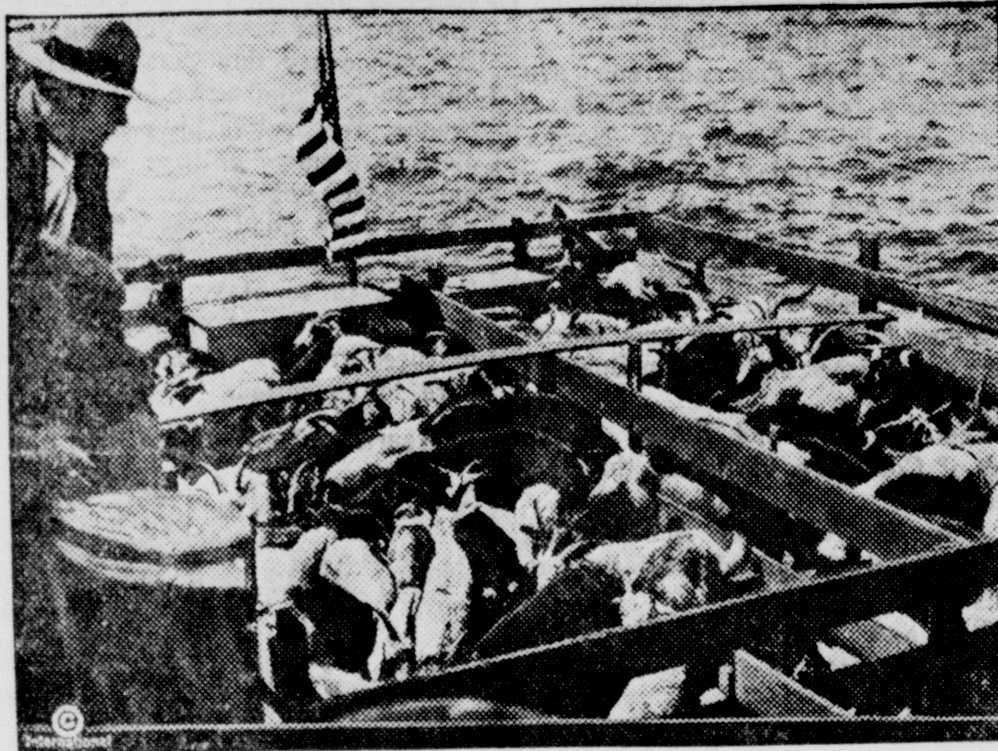

The management will also arrange for other attractive educational feature exhibits. The following states will place educational exhibits at this Exposition:

Michigan, Iowa, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Wisconsin, Illinois, Kansas, South Dakota, Minnesota, Indiana and Kentucky.

The United States Government will place a mammoth exhibit as will the Canadian Seed Growers' Association. It was also decided at this meeting to make an additional class for single ears of corn. Prizes will be offered in each of the six regions for the best ear of corn and a handsome trophy will be awarded for the grand sweepstakes ear of the entire show. The management has also planned to secure trophies to be awarded for the best sample of corn, the best wheat and the best sample of hay.

Announcement was made that a meeting of all representatives grain

RESCUE OF STARVING MEXICAN GOATS

The island of Guadalupe, off the western Mexico coast, is inhabited by goats only—some 50,000 of them. This year they are starving, owing to lack of rain there, and many of them are being shipped to the foothill ranches of southern California. A cargo of these goats is here shown arriving at San Diego.

BEEKEEPERS URGED TO FEED BEES NOW

The Department of Entomology University, Lafayette, Indiana has issued a warning to all Bee Keepers of the State, urging them to secure any stores for feeding bees in need of stores, at once, or to take steps toward that end immediately. The United States Sugar Equalization Board 111 Wall street, New York City, has stated in reply to a special letter sent them, that there is no general rule for getting sugar, such as held last year, when beemen needed sugar for winter feeding. Every case must now be handled on its own merits.

Fortunately, most of the colonies of bees in Indiana have already sufficient stores for winter, owing to a bountiful fall flow of honey. The lack of stores that was so acute all over the State about August, has given way to the generous nectar secretion in most localities, from fall flowers, and as a result, very little feeding will need to be done, compared with conditions two years ago, or with conditions the first of August this year. But many individual colonies, for various reasons, will need feeding. It is such colonies that will die unless properly fed, and fed soon. Bees are scarce and in great demand: it behooves all bee keepers to winter over all colonies possible this winter. If any colony, by the middle or 20th of October, as less than 30 or 40 lbs. of honey (40 is better) it should be fed enough sugar syrup to make the amount adequate. Probably no surplus sugar can be secured locally. But all beemen needing sugar are urged to write at once to the U. S. Sugar Equalization Board, 111 Wall St., New York City stating their needs, how much desired, and basing their petition on the letter sent by the Board to the Entomology Department of Washington, Division of Bee Culture, early in October. The Board holds out hope that individual needs may be supplied, for actually needy colonies, if personal requests are made and made promptly.

Only the best granulated sugar should be used for winter stores. Better feed nothing, rather than buy brown sugar and lose both bees and sugar, says E. C. Baldwin, bee specialist at Purdue. A syrup for winter is made by taking one part water to two parts sugar, and bringing both to a boil, then letting stand until cold and again bringing to a boil. Such a food will not granulate or sugar in combs and is an excellent food for the cold winter months.

Procrastination is sure loss. Feed before cold weather comes. Order sugar at once, after ascertaining your needs.

More details on winter care of bees may be obtained by writing to the extension department of Purdue.

BOYS AND GIRLS BEAT GROWN-UPS RAISING CORN

In measuring up the one acre corn plots for boy and girl club members in Jefferson County, County Agent B. J. Doddridge found that their average yield is 42 bushels to the acre while the average for the entire county was below 25 bushels. Continued dry weather cut the yield greatly, the agent says. The yield of corn produced by the club members was practically twice as great as the average for the county.

6,059 POUND OF MILK AVERAGE PRODUCTION OF 128 COWS IN INDIANA

One hundred and twenty-eight cows which have been on test in the Warlick and Spencer County Cow Testing Association for the last twelve months produced an average of 6,059 pounds of milk and 270 pounds of butterfat at an average feed cost of $68.96 and a return of $2.10 for every dollar spent for feed.

Forty-four cows, or more than a third of those on test, produced an average of 7,673 pounds of milk and 357 pounds of fat. The feed cost for these select 44 averaged $84.40, but the return was $2.38 for every dollar spent for them. They produced an average of profit of $116.75 per cow against an average of $75.75 for the entire association.

Six cows of the association produced more than 400 pounds of butterfat during the year. Blue Bell, a grade Holstein belonging to J. S. Pattie, of Spencer county, leading all others with 471.2 pounds to her credit. Another grade Holstein, Beauty, belonging to A. Hanning also of Spencer county, led the entire association in milk production with 13,641 pounds to her credit.

Data compiled from the official figures, shows that there is a great deal more profit in owning high producing than low producing animals. The ten high cows in the association had an average milk production of 9,573 pounds, 415.5 pounds of butterfat against an average of 4,196 pounds of milk and 155.7 pounds of butterfat for the ten low cows. The high producing cows ate an average of $88.67 worth of feed, while the poorer producers ate only $62.16 worth. But, the profit on the ten high individuals was $150.62 per cow, while the low producers returned only $21.67. The ten high ones returned $2.70 for every dollar spent for their feed while the ten bottom bovines brought only $1.35 for each dollar spent for their feed.

The same figures showed that it cost only 21 cents to produce a pound of fat from the high producing animals and 40 cents for the poorer producers. Here is how the cows stacked up finally on production:

In the 450 to 500 pound of butterfat class, 2; in the 400 to 450 pound class, 4; in the 350 to 400 pound class, 15; in the 300 to 350 class, 23; in the 250 to 300 class, 24; in the 200 to 250 class, 34; in the 150 to 200 class, 23, and in the 100 to 150 pound class, 3. The cows in the latter class did not even pay their feed bill and the owner had all his work of feeding, milking, and handling of the milk for nothing. An analysis of feed cost figures for the cows in these various classes shows that it requires about $8 worth of additional feed to produce an additional fifty pounds of butterfat, says R. D. Canan, of the Purdue University extension staff, who is in charge of cow testing association work in the state.

As a result of the testing work, many dairymen throughout the two counties, in addition to members of the association, have gotten rid of boarder cows. The testing work has helped association members learn which cows are paying and which are not paying their board, and high producing cows are rapidly replacing poorer ones.

URGES FARMERS TO REPORT DISEASES AMONG LIVE STOCK

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 15—Attention of Indiana live stock growers to the menace resulting from their failure promptly to report any contagion that may overtake their live stock, is asked by Dr. L. E. Northrup, state veterinarian, in a special bulletin issued today. Dr. Northrup says there appears to be a lack of information in certain quarters, relative to the duty imposed upon live stock men, county officials and others relative to reporting diseases among live stock. A penalty attaches to such failure, Dr. Northrup points out, but the Indiana Live Stock Sanitary Board desires, he says, to effect a cooperative arrangement and understanding with the interests involved.

Article 3 of the regulations adopted by the Indiana Live Stock Sanitary Board reads in part as follows:

"It shall be the duty of any city or local board or township trustees, veterinarian, county agent or other public official, whenever notice is given of animals being infected with rabies or having been exposed to the disease, to promptly notify the State Veterinarian, who shall establish necessary quarantine which shall remain in effect until revoked by official notice."

Article 4 of the regulations adds: "It shall be the duty of any public official, county agent, veterinarian, live stock breeder or farmer having knowledge of any contagious, infectious, or communicable diseases of live stock, immediately to report same to the State Veterinarian's office."

Recently through reports that have come indirectly to his office, Dr. Northrup says he has located infection, the possibilities of which, unrestricted, might have been very serious and resulted in great losses. Only prompt action prevented an epidemic, and it was in order to avoid unnecessary and dangerous delays, he adds, that the sanitary board made the regulations above referred to.

OUTSIDE PIT IS BEST SEED POTATO STORAGE

The old fashioned dirt pit is the best place to store seed potatoes as well as those to be used during the winter. This will outclass the cellar because the seed will be kept cooler and the seed will not sprout with the first warm weather of spring, say extension horticulturists at Purdue University.

Potatoes held last winter in pits, in spite of warm weather, when opened the last of April were just as crisp as when placed in storage. In one pit on Wm. Schrieber's farm near Hammond, more than 100 bushels were taken out and not one sprouted, shriveled or spoiled. These potatoes had not lost their vitality and consequently produced a good stand.

The pit should be put in a well drained place. Four to six inches of dirt should be excavated, and a thin layer of straw scattered over the ground.

The potatoes are then piled up in a pointed pile. It is preferable to place a ventilator of some sort down through the center of the potato pile. Over the tubers a six inch layer of straw is spread and dirt as winter approaches the potatoes will go through the coldest weather without freezing.

After the outer layers have frozen it is well to spread a layer of fresh manure over the outside of the pit. This will aid further in protecting the potatoes and serves to keep the outer layer of dirt frozen longer in the spring and consequently the potatoes cooler.

BUYING OF GOOD ANIMALS AND CALF CLUB TO HELP BUILD UP DAIRY HERDS

Improvement of the dairy herds of Greene county has been started by local farmers at the suggestion of County Agent M. B. Nugent, through the purchase of several pure-bred and high grade animals to replace scrub stock. The agent and eight of the men recently made a trip to Clinton County where they purchased 34 cows, six of which were pure-bred, and two pure-bred sires. In addition to buying the Clinton county cattle, which will be distributed over fourteen farms, the purchasers and other men are supporting a pure-bred dairy calf club which one of the banks there is offering to finance.

Culling Flocks Not Difficult.

That the poultry culling work which is being conducted throughout the state by poultry specialists from the extension department of Purdue University is accomplishing a great deal toward bettering the poultry industry is shown by hundreds of reports receiving from county agents and individuals. Here is a sample of one of many letters received which shows that the culling work really is arousing a widespread interest in better methods:

"Dear Sir: I was at your culling demonstration at Ralph Flory's in Jackson township. More than that, I am very glad I met you. I was a ragged orphan boy and grew up in Jay county. Last year my income was $1.03 per day for eggs. This year, I have a few more hens and fully expect to gather $800 worth of eggs. Up to Sept. 28, I had gathered 19,975. By culling I have sold over $100 worth of hens and expect to sell and eat $100 worth of young roosters. I think the chickens will buy the feed and the eggs will be clear."

"I simply give you a little of my history, showing you that anybody can do these things. I feed and this year I culled. If you have information on raising chickens, coop building or feeding, I would be glad to receive it."

Bulletins on all these topics were sent the man and the poultrymen regard him as a man who will make a success of the poultry business as part of his farm operations.

FARMER FINDS SOYBEANS IN HILL HELP CORN CROP

Guy McKinnis, a Tippecanoe county farmer, who won an Indiana Corn Growers' Association gold medal in 1917 for growing 100 bushels of corn to the acre, has just completed an interesting demonstration with soybeans and corn which he conducted in co-operation with County Agent Otis Crane.

Four separate plots were planted, two with corn alone and soys drilled in the row and two with soybeans planted with the corn. In the plot where the soybeans were drilled in the row and the crop plowed one way, the yield of beans was very good, but the corn lacked two bushels per acre of yielding as well as the corn alone. However, the crop of beans would more than pay for the reduced corn yield. In the other two plots the beans and corn were planted in the same hill and plowed both ways. This corn outyielded that where the beans were sown in the row. Mr. McKinnis is pleased with the results and says that he intends to continue planting beans in the hill with the corn.

DAVISS COUNTY FARMER MAKES HOGS WEIGH 204 POUNDS AT SIX MONTHS

Henry Wichman of Steel township, Daviess county, has just completed a hog demonstration in co-operation with County Agent T. D. Ball, in which he demonstrated that it was possible to profitably make hogs weigh over 200 pounds at six months of age.

Wichman fed the hogs from weaning time on clover pasture with corn and tankage in a self-feeder out in the field. When sold, the porkers lacked a few days of being six months old and their average weight was 204 pounds. They brought him $2.35 per bushel for the corn they ate besides paying for the tankage.

COUNTY AGENT AND FARMER TEST SMALL GRAIN VARIETIES

On the George King farm, opposite the county farm in DeKalb county, a field demonstration and variety test on four kinds of wheat, four kinds of rye and three kinds of winter barley are being run by County Agent A. Z. Arehart. The kinds of wheat being tried out are Michigan Amber, Red Rock, Michikoff and Tybrid. The varieties of rye included are Mammoth Winter, Rosen, Petkus, and Wisconsin Pedigree. The barley varieties are Purdue No. 21, Michigan Winter and Tennessee Winter Home.

Because of a shortage of potash in much of the soil in Starke county little clover has been grown heretofore. However, the county agent this year persuaded a number of men to grow oats and Canadian field peas together and they harvested an average of one and three fifths tons of hay to the acre. Those who have started feeding it, say that it has given nearly as good results as clover or alfalfa hay.

I felt she was about to ring off and leave me with that and shouted at her: "Here—hold on! I don't know what to do—you'll have to advise me."

"But I can't! You must do as you think best—you understand it."

"I don't! That's just the trouble. Listen. There are some things I've got to know about. You keep on answering yes and no—that isn't going to give anything away at your end, and I'm in a drug store and I don't think anything will get out from this end. . . . You knew I was at your house yesterday?"

"Yes—after you had left."

"You knew I was accused? And that I denied everything?"

"I thought it happened that way—I wasn't sure."

"Were you accused, too?"

"Yes."

"Of the same thing?"

"I presume so."

"You denied everything?"

"Absolutely."

"Now I really must know this—did you bring those articles in yourself?"

"Yes."

"You said a friend did."

Simple Home Remedy Advised For Rose And Hay Fever

Anyone Can Make a Pint For Trifling Sum and Used In Time May Prevent
Annual Attack

"No matter how severe your yearly attack be,
No matter how distressing or humiliating—
Its intensity can be reduced to a harmless, mildness."

says a Kentucky druggist who believes from what he has seen that this simple home made remedy is a most important discovery.

He has seen the most severe and apparently unconquerable cases reduced to what might be called a mild cold in twenty-four hours.

In many cases where the patient started treatment a week or ten days before the expected attack the unwelcome yearly visitor failed to appear with anything like its usual intensity.

People who want to try this new treatment can make a pint in a few minutes.

Pour one ounce of Mentholized Arcine into a pint bottle then fill the bottle with water that has been boiled. Gargle daily as directed and sniff or spray the nostrils twice daily.

That's all there is to the treatment which so many sufferers have found to be a true friend.

Mentholized Arcine in one ounce vials is dispensed by all the better pharmacies.

FASCINATING TEETH

How Every Woman Can Quickly Charm Her Friends With Lovely Teeth,
Clean, White and Brilliant

If you want the cleanest of white teeth and healthy gums free from disease, an easy and quick way to get both is to use a tooth paste so effective and perfect that astonishing results usually come in a week's time.

And the cost is so little. Just go to any drug or department store, and get a large tube of SENRECO TOOTH PASTE for 35 cents.

Not only will it make your teeth clean and white, but it will at once remove any filmy coating, help to check the ravages of Pyorrhea and banish acidity in the mouth.

It is used by thousands of dentists and its sale has been remarkable. When you visit your dentist, which you should do at least twice a year, ask him about SENRECO. It's a most delightful and refreshing tooth paste.

"Well—I didn't feel I could explain at the time. There were circumstances connected with it—"

"At the time we crossed together—this last trip?"

"Yes. Can't you see how things have been worked? If I'd followed my intuitions, I shouldn't have allowed—"

"The girl to come with you?"

"Yes. It was planned."

"Wait! There's another thing I want to know."

"I'll tell you later."

"No—now. How did they get through the—"

"I can't tell you."

"But I must know—it's a matter of great importance to me."

"One of those slippers we bought in Paris is lost."

"No it isn't—I have it. Please answer my question—how?"

"Good-by."

That was all. I couldn't get another word. She'd rung off. Just as I was trying to get her back, I saw Mr. Detective Man slip into the drug store. He saw me in the booth. Then he quickly slipped away again. I hung up and stepped out; but I looked back as I opened the street door—Mr. Detective Man was just sliding into the booth to find out what number I'd called!

I went quietly home feeling I had gained forward one step at least—Mrs. Delario had admitted her smuggling—which I didn't consider any of my affair—and she had confirmed my suspicions that De Ravenol was trying to rob her. "All right, let's see him do it!" thought I; but how—if she hadn't told him—and she said she hadn't—and of course she wouldn't—how under the heavens did he know, or even suspect that I had her diamonds?

I had on my rubbers—for these reasons my trip through the hall to the elevator was noiseless. The elevator car was up, and as I heard it coming down I did not ring. I was standing with my back to the shaft, facing the door of the rear flat—I stood at most three feet away from that door.

Without the slightest sound of footsteps from the hall of the flat, that door opened—a man's face looked out—looked at me—and the door noiselessly closed.

It happened in a flash, so silently, that had my back been turned, had I been watching the descent of the car, I should have been none the wiser.

The man who opened the door was Monsieur De Ravenol.

I could not possibly be mistaken. The main hall light shone full on his face. He was hatless. And what was more—he recognized me and knew I had recognized him!

I was stupefied! The man was evidently living in the same house with me!

The rattling elevator recalled me to my senses as George, smiling and talkative, opened the door for me to get in. How much did George know? The car slid up.

"Who is the gentleman living in the rear flat?" I asked with as much unconcern as I could. "The French gentleman—foreigner—I don't know if he's French or what. What is his name?"

"His name?" George considered this past another floor, and I repeated the question.

"I don't know—his name—he ain't been here long."

"When did he take the flat?"

"Well, now I don't know jes' which day it was, but it was before you came home—maybe two days, maybe a week, an' he ain't really moved in yet—only a bed an' some chairs. He say he got furniture comin' from the other side an' he don't want to buy no more here than he can help."

"Naturally. Did he speak to you about me?" I put the question boldly as the car stopped at my floor. George hesitated and then admitted:

The Man Was Monsieur de Ravenol.

"Well, he did say he thinks he knows you." He appeared reluctant to discuss monsieur.

I broke out in a new line. "The gentleman is very rich, George. I hope he tipped you well."

George was instantly enthusiastic. "He done that! He gimme ten dollars."

"He's good for another ten, George, if you work him right," I affirmed. "Oh, you needn't be so shy! He asked you a lot of questions about me and you don't want me to know it. You told him everything you knew."

"Well, that's right," George broke in sheepishly. "He did ask me some questions, but honest to goodness, I ain't told him anything bad—I tell him I don't really know much about you. That's what I tell him, honest to goodness."

"He really paid you for telling him every time I went out or came in, didn't he?"

But George was suspicious and on guard at once. He threw open the car door without answering.

"Oh, all right," said I carelessly, but not stepping out as I saw he wished me to. "You needn't give it away, but I know, all the same, so it doesn't matter whether you tell me or not."

"What you suppose he so perticular to know fer?" asked George, ingenuously feeling he was guarding his secret while gratifying his curiosity.

"How should I know? Maybe he wants to hang flowers on my door. He's very rich, I understand."

George grinned, interested and sympathetic. He scented romance and it explained all to him as adequately as it had to Mrs. Jimmson.

I unlocked my door as quickly as I could—I didn't mean to let George think I attached any importance to monsieur. I knew enough. The man was a fellow tenant in the same house, in the flat directly under mine, and George was his paid spy. As I shut the door, I asked myself, "What next?"

I had a fleeting idea of keeping Jimmson with me for the night; but I couldn't think of any explanation for so unusual a request. I could not take her into my confidence—if she stayed, I could hardly keep her out of it. She was anxious to go home—I saw that and I didn't blame her; and I was anxious to be alone and think, and I felt only relief as I saw the last of her faded skimpy weeds, her faded skimpy form, and I said good-by to her heartily. Little realizing that she was the one human being who stood between me and monsieur's machinations, and that when she closed herself out, she closed me in—a prisoner.

CHINESE BECOME SOCIAL PIONEERS

Men and Women Form Good Fellowship Club Together Under Y. M. C. A. Leadership.

The Good Fellowship Club has made its appearance in society in Hangchow, China.

It began with the desire of a progressive young Chinese doctor to give his compatriots, especially the Christians, some healthful form of social intercourse.

Channels for a good, clean, social life among Chinese people are very limited. Until recently becoming a Christian often meant cutting oneself off from one's friends and relatives, also from feast days and festivals. As for joint meetings of men and women—well, such a thing was never heard of in decent society.

The young doctor's plan of having a club where men and their wives might come together to enjoy a good time with each other was discouraged and sniffed at. However, a few people agreed to be pioneers in the cause of social intercourse, and Y. M. C. A. secretaries agreed to help make the club a success.

At first the meetings of the club were laughed at by outsiders and the whole affair considered a joke. However, the members kept on meeting, first at one house and then at another. Soon the men got over the feeling of strangeness at starting out with their wives on Tuesday evening for a friend's home. The women began to enjoy the outing and to take part in the discussions—an intelligent part, too—much to the surprise of their husbands.

The membership grew. The club's fame began to spread. At first the discussions of the club were conducted in English. Soon it became necessary for them to be carried on in Chinese so that more of the women could understand and take part. Many of the scoffers began to apply for admission. The members began indulging in much friendly chaffing and occasionally forgot their dignity to play jokes on one another. Finally it became so large that it had to be divided into two sections, which met separately three Tuesday evenings in the month and on the fourth Tuesday met together for a joint session, with a special program.

Students just returned from American and German colleges, an old Buddhist scholar who is particularly interested in the discussion on Buddhism and Christianity, merchants, railroad and government officials compose the men's side of the room. The women are still a bit shy about talking in front of so many people, but many of them show signs of great executive ability and power of leadership. They are all well poised, clear thinking individuals, who will have a great influence on China's future. They discuss among themselves group meetings in their various churches, the lack of amusements for Chinese women, social service work, subscription lists for the orphanage, cake making, types of stoves, baby diets, the latest engagement and other topics such as one would hear discussed by a group of women gathered together any place in America.

The social part of the evening is given over to games, which at first astounded the sober Chinese gentlemen, but which they take up with great zest after the first evening. And their wives enjoy it just as greatly.

Real American picnics are the latest thing which the club has tried, and they are a great success. A Christmas play is being planned now.

ENGLISH IS COMMON TONGUE.

Chinese Girls Learn It to Talk to One Another.

Chinese women students in the Tung Fu College, Peking, China, are obliged to learn English in order to talk with one another because of the different dialects used by the student body.

Girls from the extreme western provinces of China, who attend the school, must remain in Peking during all of the eight years required for their high school and college training, because to return each summer would require six weeks for the trip one way and would cost more than a trip to America and return.

Girls from each of the western provinces speak a different language and they cannot understand one another any more than they can the girls from northern, southern, eastern or central provinces. Hence, they have adopted English as a common tongue.

Roy Downs left Sunday night for a visit in St. Louis, Chicago, Kansas City and other western points.

Red Cross Chapter Delegates to Hear

Livingston Farrand, Red Cross
Peace-Time Leader

A RECENT announcement from Lake Division headquarters of the American Red Cross gives the dates of October 20, 21 and 22 for the three Lake Division state meetings of the American Red Cross.

Dr. Livingston Farrand, Chairman of the Central Committee, will speak in Lexington, Indianapolis and Cleveland, before gatherings of Red Cross chapter chairmen, executives and members who have been invited to hear Dr. Farrand detail the Red Cross peace service as it is being carried out.

According to Dr. Farrand, various kinds of Red Cross work are to be coordinated for service in American communities. Home Service, Nursing, First Aid, and Junior Red Cross work in communities will perpetuate the Red Cross name, emblem and service for humanity throughout America.

Letters received recently at Lake Division Headquarters give evidence that the needs of local communities not now taken care of, are to be the business of the American Red Cross as its peace-time work. Until the after-war work overseas is completed, the Red Cross is to function abroad. The Red Cross, concerned not alone with emergencies arising from sudden disasters, is planning to meet the continuing disaster of peace, the thousands of unnecessary deaths which occur yearly from preventable disease and epidemic.

Three hundred and sixty-five chapters with the thousands of branches and auxiliaries in Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky, have been invited to send one or more delegates to attend the important meetings just announced.

Disaster Relief Still a Red Cross Service

If there comes to your town, Fire, Flood, Storm, or Epidemic, the American Red Cross will come, too, bringing relief and supplies to tide you over the time of emergency. This service is to be part of the peace-time work of the organization for which public support is to be asked during the week of November 2-11, when the Third Roll Call for members is made by the organization.

There is need of preparedness against disasters, as statistics recently compiled at National Headquarters of the Red Cross show that since 1900 the disasters of peace-time at home have injured 1,500,000 people, destroyed $1,000,000 worth of property. In the year 1917 alone Red Cross aid was called for in eighty disasters.

Under Red Cross direction the entire resources of all communities can be mobilized for almost instant use when needed. Three hundred and sixty-five Red Cross chapters in Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky constitute preparedness committees which are to make surveys to locate food, hospital supplies, clothing, physicians and nurses, ready for emergency service.

This information is to be filed by the thirteen territorial division offices of the organization and will make possible the establishment of disaster relief centers centrally located and prepared to cover trouble anywhere in the United States.

In cases where the emergency is too great for any one division to handle through its own relief centers, the entire relief strength of the Red Cross can be mobilized through National Headquarters. Disaster relief work, a traditional service to the Red Cross, is to be included in the peace-time plans for service to Americans now being worked out in the Lake Division.

John Hazze and Rev. John Wiegand of Bedford, came Sunday to see Rev. J. F. Severinghaus, who is seriously ill.
